City Council tries to tackle code violators

Trick or Treat times set

Property violations were the major topic at Monday's Warsaw City Council meeting. Councilmen Keith Jones and Tyler Boaz were absent from the regular monthly meeting.

Brent Caldwell, city code enforcement officer, presented council with a list of problems in Warsaw. They include the house at 201 West High Street which has long been sealed by police for housing a methamphetamine lab and appears to be abandoned. Mayor C.E. French will pursue condemning the property.

The city will also pursue legal action against 302 Third Street for yard problems and bed bugs.

Road problems at the Blue Heron housing development were referred to city attorney Mike Duncan and the city may revoke the property's bond.

Councilman Randy Jones raised concerns about the consignment store located at the old Warsaw Apartments on East Main Street across from Subway. Jones questioned if the store, owned by Steve and Sue Taylor, is zoned properly and has enough parking.

In other city business:

•Halloween Trick or Treat will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, October 31.

•Street paving and repair should begin in about a week.

•Councilman Jerry Hunt raised concerns with the overgrown tree in the city's "pocket park" across from the courthouse. Water Commissioner Eric Moore will remove it.

Similarly, councilman Jamie Gould raised concerns with an overgrown tree on Main Street across from the post office. It will be trimmed back.

•Council met in closed session to discuss a personnel issue.

Library will host 'Meet and Greet' for politicians

The Gallatin County Public Library will host a "Meet and Greet" to give residents a chance to talk with candidates running for office this fall. The event will be held Tuesday, Oct. 23, from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the library.

"This is an opportunity to get to know many of our U. S. and state legislators as well as candidates running for local offices," said library director Shirley Warnick. "We urge everyone to stop in and tell those running for office what's important to them."

There will be no speeches or formal agenda. It will be an informal gathering to give voters a chance to talk with the candidates.

All Gallatin County elected officials and candidates have been invited to attend. In addition, invitations have been sent to State Senator John Schickel, Democratic State Representative candidate Wanda Crupper Hammons, Republican State Representative candidate Brian Linder, Republican U. S. House candidate Thomas Massie, Democratic U. S. House candidate Bill Adkins and Commonwealth Attorney Linda Tally-Smith.

Another important event at the library this month will be a visit from author Larry Hamilton. He will be there Wednesday, Oct. 17, at 3 p.m., to discuss his book, Lucy's Story. This historical novel is about Lucy Sams, who was a slave in Madison County, Kentucky, and fled north during the Civil War. Hamilton is Sam's great-great grandson.

Election letters welcomed

The Gallatin County News welcomes Letters to the Editor concerning candidates and issues for the Nov. 6 elections.

Letters will be published in our special pre-election edition on Oct. 31. All letters will be considered for publication but may be edited for length and content. They must be received in our office by Friday, Oct. 26.

Hunting issue also on the ballot

Voters will find more than races for political office when they go to the polls on Election Day, Nov. 6. They will vote on a constitutional amendment to the Kentucky Constitution which would protect hunting and fishing rights for the state's residents.

Legislators say the amendment is necessary because groups that propose limits or bans on taking certain animals or fish may pose a threat to hunting and fishing rights. If passed, the amendment would make hunting and fishing a legal right instead of a privilege.

In 1996, Vermont became the first state to make hunting and fishing a right. Since then, 12 other states have taken similar steps. Those states are: Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and Wisconsin. Arizona is the only state where voters rejected a constitutional amendment to make hunting and fishing a right.

Along with Kentucky, voters in Idaho, Nebraska, and Wyoming will consider similar amendments this year.

Absentee voting has already begun in Gallatin County Clerk Tracy Miles's office. Anyone unable to get to the Clerk's office can apply for a paper absentee ballot. Those applications must be received by Oct. 30.

Voters will find several local races on the ballot. These include:

Warsaw City Council

Running for one of the six seats on Warsaw City Council are incumbents

Tyler Boaz, Randy Jones, Keith Jones, Jamie Gould and Jerry Hunt. Former council member Gary Thompson is also in the race, as is Michael Finck.

Glencoe City Council

The race for Glencoe City Council is crowded with ten candidates vying for the seats. They include incumbents Charlotte Adams, Leesa Nantz, Richard Dunaway, Mike Hampton, and JuJu Sullivan. Also hoping to join council are former mayor Mike Murphy, former council member James Edmondson as well as Benny Edmondson, Anthony West and Teresa McPherson.

Sparta Commission

Dale Samuel, Bonnie Bond, Bill Dunavent and Chad Dunavent are running for the Sparta City Commission.

School Board

There are three school board seats up for election. Incumbent Becky Burgett has filed to run

One dead, two injured in crash

An Owen County man was killed and two others seriously injured in a crash early Tuesday morning on Highway 35.

Kentucky State Police dispatchers received a call about a single vehicle crash at 1:59 a.m. Tuesday. A preliminary investigation shows the car, driven by 26-year-old Michael Grubb of Georgetown, Ky. was traveling south on Highway 35 when the vehicle left the road for an unknown reason and rolled several times.

Grubb was flown to University of Cincinnati Hospital. A passenger, 24-year-old Justin Renfro of Owenton was pronounced dead at the scene. Another passenger, Drew Mason, 26, of Sparta, was also flown to the University of Cincinnati Hospital. Alcohol is a suspected factor in the crash. No one in the vehicle was wearing a seat belt.

The signs are all around us

This and That

By Kelley Warnick
Editor

Anyone near the Ohio River early Sunday morning probably saw the large flock of Canada Geese flying south in their characteristic chevron pattern. We all know it means something when birds flock together and take to the sky.

It also means something when you find silky spider webs on nearly every plant on a morning walk through the woods. You see them now, glistening in the light of a new day.

You can also find meaning in tobacco barns which are quickly disappearing across the rural landscape of this part of the world. Those that remain are nearly full now and their shutters are no longer closed. Instead, they're open, allowing the wind to cure the golden leaves inside.

Have you looked at a sunset lately? The one last Wednesday had a tale to tell. The light seemed clearer and the color deeper. As the days end now, there's a different feeling in the sky than there was a few weeks ago.

You can see it in the river and animals that depend on it. Fish are schooling and the Great Blue Herons are returning from their breeding grounds along the Great Lakes. They find the living good here this time of year as the small fish they eat swim across the surface of the mighty Ohio.

It's not just in the river where the bounty is plentiful. Roadside stands are now full of pumpkins, squash and sweet potatoes. The first batches of apple cider wait for customers at local orchards.

The breeze also has a story to tell. These days you can depend on it to be cool and fresh each evening as dusk falls on our corner of the world.

Yes, the signs are here. The leaves on the locust and wild cherry trees are no longer green and lush, but have turned brown and have begun to fall. Walnuts and acorns now hang heavy in the trees.

Wildflowers are also changing. The Black-Eyed Susans and wild daisies of summer are gone. In their place, bloom the delicate white blossoms of a flower many know only as "Summers End".

There are no longer Blue Birds on the nest. Insects are busy searching for food their offspring will need to survive. Fawns have lost their spots and are brave enough to frolic in fields without constant contact with their mothers.

Even the heavens seem more brilliant these days as the light from stars and solar systems billions of miles away sparkle with added clarity in the night sky.

If the herons have returned, if the breeze blows cool in the evening, if cider is sold at roadside stands and if the sun has shifted in the sky, it can mean only one thing.

It's time to pull out sweaters from the cedar chest, celebrate the harvest and make plans for the important months that lie ahead.

October is here and life is changing for all of us who live in this corner of the world. It's time to welcome the beauty of autumn to the Ohio River Valley.

Presidential race has veered away from Kentucky

We're encouraged to vote this time of year but it appears some votes are more important than others for the presidential race.

At this late date in the campaigns, Kentucky's votes for president are far less valuable to the candidates than votes from the "Swing States" such as Ohio. That's because pollsters say Kentucky is already firmly aligned behind Mitt Romney and there's little Barack Obama can do during the next four weeks to change that.

There's little reason for candidates to campaign or spend money in places where voters have already made up their minds. Instead, both campaigns will try to win votes from states that have the potential to "swing" toward either candidate.

Along with Kentucky, there are about 43 other states where the presidential race is already decided. Therefore, the full attention of both campaigns is now directed toward the six Swing States of Virginia and Florida on the Atlantic Coast, Ohio and Iowa in the Midwest, and New Mexico and Colorado in the Southwest.

And it is these states that will determine who will serve as president for the next four years.

Despite the lack of impact our votes in Kentucky will have on the presidential race, there are still good reasons to go to the polls on Election Day. There are a variety of local elections, for example, where our votes will be crucial. There are also races for U.S. Rep., and the Kentucky legislature.

For a full slate of our important elections and the candidates who are running, see page one. And remember to vote on Tuesday, November 6.

Nelson Brown withdraws from Warsaw race

Dear Editor:

I'm writing to let the citizens of Warsaw know that while I would have appreciated the opportunity to serve another two years as a Warsaw City Councilman, I am withdrawing my candidacy.

I have chosen to retire at the end of 2012. This decision requires me to step away from all positions for a period of time.

I thank all who supported my candidacy and shared my vision for the city. As many of you know, I am a very outspoken person who believes in honesty and integrity.

I have served with five fellow councilmen for the past two years. I feel they're trying to lead this city in the right direction. They still have a tough task ahead of them.

I am asking all my friends and family to support them in being re-elected on November 6.

Thank you,
Nelson Brown

Kentucky Commentary

Kentucky Supreme Court fails our students

Many members of Kentucky's legislature and teachers unions are enemies of school choice in the commonwealth.

The Kentucky Education Association has worked for years with powerful politicians to keep even the most rudimentary types of school choice – like the charter schools found in 41 other states and the District of Columbia – from winning out in Kentucky.

But a recent ruling has revealed another player in that axis against any type of educational liberty: the Kentucky Supreme Court.

The court's verdict allows the bureaucrats at Jefferson County Public Schools to legally neglect the wishes of parents who have enrolled their children in the school closest to home.

Instead, the school board is now permitted to force students on a bus that will coast right past their local neighborhood school and on to the other side of town – all in the name of some education elitist's vision of diversity.

Why are the five justices so eager to jump on the same bus as those who run the failed Jefferson County school system?

The losers in this case are parents who want their children in a school close to home so that the entire family can be involved in their education.

According to one of the two dissenters in the case, Justice Daniel Venters, the court's decision is akin to the "surrealistic world of The Eagles' song 'Hotel California'."

Just like that unfortunate hotel where visitors can check out any time they want but can never leave, the Supreme Court ruled that Jefferson County parents can "enroll" their child in their local school whenever they wish – but the child may never "attend".

You're not the only one thinking: "That makes absolutely no sense."

The justices fell back on a 1990 change that amended the law from allowing children to "attend" to one that only allowed them to "enroll" in their neighborhood school.

This was all done primarily to protect Louisville's failed busing program, but could have consequences statewide for parents who move in order to enroll their children in a neighborhood school that's part of a higher-performing district.

The whole line of reasoning is even more confusing than the attempts by teachers' unions to explain why it actually benefits students for districts to reward teachers based on longevity instead of merit, prohibit the termination of underperforming teachers, and scoff at the notion that parents know what's best for their children.

In the past, parents with children in failing schools at least had the option of packing up and moving the family to a neighborhood with better schools. Some parents even dream of making such a move.

However, thanks to five justices in long black robes, those dreams went up in smoke – like the smoky exhaust expelled from one of Jefferson County's road-worn school buses dragging students many miles out of their neighborhoods.

In fact, one of those Jefferson County deportation-mobiles recently overturned as a result of another one of its daily 16-mile treks busing students from one end of Jefferson County to another. The accident sent at least one child to the hospital and terrified the parents of the 48 students injured.

The court's ruling ultimately bodes ill for the increasing number of Kentuckians committed to bringing choice – and reform – to an education system that has nearly doubled in real spending while remaining stagnant in its performance for more than two decades.

It also sends a clear message to all Kentucky families that the commonwealth's highest court is no friend of educational liberty.

Glencoe Council takes steps to protect residents

Mike Dickerson News Reporter

Glencoe City Council discussed unruly teenagers at Monday's meeting who have been fighting and harassing residents. Council also discussed the safety of students and bus monitors on school buses. The issue will be brought to the attention of Gallatin County School Superintendent Dot Perkins.

Glencoe Mayor Jim Nantz said he is forming a neighborhood watch group to help protect residents. The group will meet with county Sheriff Josh Neale later this month and all interested parties are invited to attend.

At Monday's council meeting, Deputy Sheriff John Fuelhart explained how a juvenile is taken into custody. The process becomes more difficult at night, as the juvenile must be taken out of the county for processing and detention. The arresting officer returns the offender to his home the next day. Fuelhart said the process requires a deputy to be out of the county for up to four hours, which reduces available coverage in the county.

Amendment

Soil and Conservation

Incumbents Joe Smith, Ron Courtney, Peggy Tinch and Joe Lowe have filed to keep their seats as county soil and water conservation officers.

Other Races

Also on the ballot will be the election of the President of the United States between incumbent Democrat Barack Obama and Republican challenger Mitt Romney.

There is also a race for the U. S. Congress in this district between Republican Thomas Massie, Democrat Bill Adkins and Independent David Lewis. In addition, voters will find the race for the Kentucky House of Representatives in this district between Democrat Wanda Crupper Hammons and Republican Brian Linder.

Wildcats fall hard at W/V

Lose district game 42-6

Mark Gray
Sports Reporter

The Gallatin County Wildcat football team fell to 5-3 on Friday night with a district loss at Walton-Verona.

The Cats fell behind early as they did last week and couldn't recover on the way to a 42-6 loss.

Gallatin was held to just 156 yards of total offense while the Bearcats racked up 443 yards.

Austin Chapman scored Gallatin's only touchdown when he ran it in from 20 yards out in the second quarter.

The junior quarterback also completed 11 of 22 passes for 93 yards.

Nate McCoy had four receptions for 49 yards to lead the receivers. Nick Brown was the leading rusher with 10 carries for 27 yards.

Brown also led the defense with 16 tackles and Brennan Bishop added 14. Brady Lawrence had a fumble recovery.

Middle School

The Cats finished their season with a solid win over the Panthers, 50-32. The win gave the team a 4-3 winning record to end the season.

Coach Steve Zimmer told his squad to play like it was the going to be the last game they ever played and the boys delivered.

Taran Stephenson threw several touchdown passes and scrambled in for one of his own. Michael Knight, Jeffrey Bowling and Kurtis Johnson also scored touchdowns.

Keenan Gibson carried the ball for several yards and made several receptions for a total of two touchdowns. Isaiah Striene played the game of his life, scoring three touchdowns — he also had a kickoff return called back due to a penalty. He also had three sacks.

Sixth grader Ethan Baker made a great tackle as close to the goal line and had to leave the game to receive eight stitches at the hospital.

The bus was led back into town by the fire department because it had been four years since the Gallatin County Middle School Football Team has had a winning season.

Coach Zimmer would like to say, "Great job guys, I am extremely proud of each and every one of you. Thanks for the great season!"

He thanked his entire coaching staff: Michael McCarty, Offensive Coordinator; David McCoy, Defensive Coordinator; Bryan Powers, Conditioning Coach; Demetrius Sherman, Lineman Coach; Regina Zimmer, Team Coordinator and Kim Parsons, Team Mom. He also thanked the team's diligent waterboy, Bryan Powers Jr.

And they're off

•Our friends and neighbors have been busy this past week – let’s see what they’ve been up to, and we’ll start with the continuing saga of our Alaskan sojourners:

•Once the cruise ended, the Bradleys and Meyungs headed north out of Seattle. They made the border crossing just in time before it was closed for an International Girl Scout/Boy Scout event involving scouts from both countries. Their route took them straight through downtown Vancouver, British Columbia, pulling their 30-foot fifth-wheel. Leaving the town, they were immediately in the beautiful mountain area of the Canadian Rockies. Several 4,000-ft. high passes, curvy roads, several moose and black bears later, they arrived at Dawson Creek. This town is famous for the Mile Marker “0” of the Alaskan Highway. While at the monument they met some former Kentuckians now living in Alaska. They also met a young man who was riding his motorcycle around the world! The Alaskan Highway goes through the mountainous area of British Columbia, and the foursome saw an abundance of road reconstruction and wildlife such as moose, black bears, buffalo, and Stone sheep. Stone sheep are a subspecies of the Dall Sheep and they frequent the roads to lick the salt from them. The Bradleys and Meyungs enjoyed a stop at Liard Hot Springs, considered a natural hot tub. The water comes out of the ground in a natural pool, and at the source, the water temperature reaches 125 degrees. The lower areas of the stream are cooler, and they enjoyed the nice warm water on a cool day. Back on the road, they crossed over into the Yukon Territory of Canada. While driving toward the town of Whitehorse, they spotted a mama grizzly and two cubs, right on the side of the road. Mama bear was munching on dandelions and the little ones were playing in the grass. More about this adventure next week!

•Alice and Ron Johnson were treated to a lovely dinner, Sunday, at Cheddar’s in Florence in celebration of Alice’s birthday. Their daughter and son-in-law, Angela and Greg Mitchell, with their children, Hannah, Rebekah, and Avah Mitchell, hosted the dinner. Alice said she had the grilled salmon, which was delicious, but used her willpower to resist dessert. The children, however, enjoyed a scrumptious dessert called cookie monsters. HAPPY BIRTHDAY, ALICE!

•Shirley Chipman, Mae Wallace, Lanette and Jama Morrison enjoyed supper at Jewel’s on Main. On Saturday, Savannah and Autaum Doolin spent the day with Shirley and helped her decorate cakes for the Pumpkin Festival. The girls rode in the parade, then Shirley took them to the festival to enjoy the rides and play games. Mae Wallace and Aileen Chipman also attended the festival, and enjoyed riding in the parade on the Cut Above Float. Shirley’s Sunday dinner guests were Lanette and Jama Morrison, and Derina, Savannah, and Autaum Doolin. Mae Wallace joined them later for dessert.

•Mary Jane Day, her son, Randy, and grandson, Blayne, participated in the Great Pumpkin Run at the Riverfront, Saturday morning. She reports they had a great time, all three of them received a medal, and Mary Jane and Blayne each came in first in their age bracket. She was very pleased that her prize was a gift card to Jewel’s! Later that day, Mary Jane and her husband, Bob, attended their 50th high school class reunion at the Mill Race Banquet Center in Winton Woods, having graduated from Mt. Healthy High School in 1962 (Cincinnati suburb). She said the food was great, but the best thing was seeing her old friends and reminiscing. They are all greatly anticipating their next gathering.

•Amy and Greg Dickerson drove to Edgewood, Saturday morning, to watch their son, Hayden, play soccer with his team, the Green Machine. Happily, Hayden’s team won 4-1! Saturday evening, Amy represented the Gallatin County Public Library in the face painting booth at the Pumpkin Festival from 5-7 p.m., and reports they had about 60 children participating. Amy enjoyed a surprise visit on Sunday morning from her daughter, Julia Riesenber. They spent the day looking at childhood pictures, laughing, and just enjoying their time together before Julia returned to college in Lexington that evening.

•Betty West Lionberger has had a busy week! On Wednesday she enjoyed dinner with her son and daughter-in-law, Keith and Carol West. Thursday evening, she attended a birthday celebration for her daughter, Julie Hamilton, at Julie’s Boone County home. Other family members attending were Julie’s oldest daughter and family, Kristina, Rob, and Aleigha Turner, Julie’s son and daughter, Matthew and Hannah Hamilton; Julie’s husband, Tim Hamilton, and Gwen and Darrell Maines. Kristina prepared a delicious turkey dinner for her mother, complete with all the trimmings, and Darrell contributed his famous German chocolate cake. HAPPY BIRTHDAY, JULIE!

•On Saturday evening, Betty took Julie to see a Charlie Pride concert at Belterra for her birthday. Betty said the concert was fabulous, and they both enjoyed it immensely. On Sunday after church, Betty stopped to see her granddaughter, Olivia, and baby, Nova. She also visited with Cindy, Jack, and Jacalyn Williamson, and grandson, Brian West. After arriving home, Betty fixed a big pot of chili and waited for the usual crowd of children and grandchildren to arrive, but as sometimes happens, most of them had other plans and the only one to visit was daughter, Cindy Williamson. Cindy enjoyed the chili and took some home for her lunch the next day. Betty sent Colorado beans and combread home with Cindy for Jack and Jacalyn.

•Jacalyn Williamson and Kadence Hendren attended the Pumpkin Festival and were pleased to have their faces painted. Unfortunately, they missed the hayrides, so Jack Williamson took the girls on their own private hayride.

•Kristina, Rob, and Aleigha Turner, and Hannah Hamilton, have just returned from Rob’s family reunion in Eastern Kentucky. They greatly enjoyed seeing family members and everyone was happy to see new baby, Aleigha. Hannah has her own pony there and was thrilled to visit it.

•My grandson, Tim Faller, has taken up cross-country running this year, and I’m happy to report that he won a medal on Saturday. CONGRATULATIONS, TIM!

News from Gallatin Health Care

I enjoyed my visit to Gallatin Health Care so much on Sunday evening that the three hours I spent there passed in no time at all.

James Marksberry greeted me as I started making my rounds and I saw him again as I was leaving. He commented on how long I had been there. James is a very hard worker and I hear wonderful comments about him and his brother, John, all the time.

I spent some one-on-one time with Carole Losey. She has such a warm personality and we had a very personal conversation. I think my visit with her was my Kodak moment on this visit. As I looked out her window, I saw the prettiest bird house I think I have ever seen. It was in the shape of a church. I commented on it and she said it was given to her by a family member of a resident who had died. She told the family she would take good care of it.

It was good to see Jeanette Davis. She is at Gallatin Health Care for some rehab and will be going home soon. She had a room full of visitors. Her grandson was looking for the cat that lives there. I promised him that if I found “Lucky”, I would bring him back to the room. Wouldn’t you know I did eventually find Lucky, but by the time I found the cat, Jeanette’s visitors had gone home. It gave me a chance to chat with Jeanette, though. I always enjoy talking to her. She can always make you laugh.

Audrey Hammond was just getting back from eating when I filled his table with some bananas. He looks forward to the extra bananas I give him. Mr. Perry, who is across the hall from Mr. Hammond, was glad to get a banana. He wasted no time in peeling and eating it.

I enjoyed running into our jailer, Jerry Webb, who was visiting his aunt, Doris Oyler. I told her that I didn’t have to ask her about Jerry this time, I could see he was doing okay. It is always my pleasure to stop and say hello to her. She is always so pleasant.

I managed to make it to the 600 hall on this visit and had the pleasure of getting reacquainted with Anna Maddox. She came in my fruit store many years ago and recognized me right away. She looks like a picture of health and I can’t believe I hadn’t visited her until this day. We chatted about her former Glencoe neighbors and it was like old times.

I had the pleasure of meeting Addie Toole from Florence. She said she didn’t want a banana but called for me to come back as I was walking down the hall. She said she thought it would taste good in the morning. I stayed and chatted a bit. We spoke of some landmarks in Florence. I was glad to meet a new friend.

I promised everyone I would try to see them all again on the 19th at the Fall Festival. I look forward to it every year. I am a tour guide in the Haunted House.

I want to take this time to invite everyone to Gallatin Health Care’s Fall Festival. It’s a great family event. All the money raised goes to buying Christmas gifts for all the residents. The food is great and the games are fun. Raffles and silent auctions are always a big hit. Please plan on attending Friday, October 19 from 6 to 9 p.m. Come one, come all to the best family event in Warsaw and help one of the best causes I can think of.

Ask Doctor Dirt...

First Frost can harm livestock

If you keep a weather diary, you can enter "First frost on Dry Creek Road" on October 9, 2012.

The weather prognosticators have been calling for frost the past several days, and now it's finally happened. Oh, I'm sure some of you out there in Newspaper-Land have already had a frost or two; heck, Glencoe's probably already had a half-dozen or so.

I swear, I think there's only about three months out of the year when Glencoe doesn't get frost!

For livestock owners, frost can cause some serious problems with forages. If your livestock are grazing anything in the sorghum family, including Johnsongrass, frost can cause a build-up of prussic acid in these species. Prussic acid poisoning can be lethal to livestock. So, what do you do?

After a non-killing frost like we've had, you really need to keep the animals off that pasture for at least two weeks. After a killing frost, keep them off for five to seven days or until the grass starts to turn brown. This allows time for a natural reduction in prussic acid levels.

The safest thing to do is to cut the sorghum for hay or silage. These processes usually reduce prussic acid to safe levels. Cases of prussic acid toxicity from animal fed hay or silage or very rare.

If you have more questions about forage toxicity of any kind, give me a call.

Kentucky Beef Conference

The KY Beef Conference is on October 23rd in Lexington. This one-day conference is a great opportunity for beef producers to hear folks in the beef industry discuss the current cattle outlook, marketing strategies, and other economic issues pertaining to the cattle industry.

The program starts at 9:00 AM and will be at the Fayette County Extension Office on Red Mile Road. If you're interested in attending and want more details, give me a holler.

Doctor Dirt is really David Hull, Gallatin County Extension Agent for Agriculture. If you have farm or garden questions for the good doctor, stop by or call him at 567-5481. Or, you can email him at dhull@uky.edu.

Make plans for 4-H Civic Engagement Day

Nationwide, 4-H agents and volunteers teach their members skills to become effective leaders. To further the movement of teaching youth to pledge their hands to larger service, the Kentucky, Tennessee and Florida 4-H programs have partnered to create the Tri-State Civic Engagement Day to challenge youth to serve others in their communities.

Civic engagement is the act of giving back to the community and demonstrating citizenship. The theme of the 2012 Civic Engagement Day is "Youth Against Poverty". During Civic Engagement Day, 4-H'ers will focus on areas in their community where poverty hits the hardest: children and senior citizens.

Nationwide, one in six elderly citizens lives below the poverty line, while one in four children goes to bed hungry. 4-H believes that it is the responsibility of America's youth to realize the problems in their communities and to act.

Youth are encouraged to be educated and then educate their peers, so they can capitalize on every opportunity to solve America's problems. 4-H desires to inspire youth to make a change in the world around them.

The Tri-State Engagement Day will take place Saturday, October 13 to end National 4-H Week, which began October 7th.

On Saturday, October 13th at 2:00 p.m. at the Gallatin County Extension Office, there will be a program called "Every Apron Tells a Story", a fundraiser for the Blessings in a Backpack program that is sponsored by the Family Resource Center.

Take a nostalgic and historic walk through several decades and learn how to date an apron and understand how social and economic events as well as fashion played a role in apron styles and use.

Over 100 aprons will be displayed representing styles from the late 1800's through 1970.

Part of the fun will be the laughter, smiles and memories of trying on your favorites.

The cost is $5.00 for advanced tickets and $6.00 at the door. Light refreshments will be served. There will also be a silent auction with several aprons made by the 4-H Sewing Club as well as other items. 100% of the proceeds will benefit the "Blessings in a Backpack" program. Please call the Extension Office if you have any questions.

HALLOWEEN SAFETY TIPS

Provided by your Gallatin County Emergency Management Office
Barry Alexander, Director

Kids love Halloween! They get to dress up and get free candy! What a perfect holiday! Give your kids some precious Halloween memories that they'll have for life.

Trick-or-treating isn't what it used to be. It's not as safe to let kids walk the streets alone. Send a responsible adult or older teenager with them.

Have a pumpkin carving party for your children and their friends a couple of nights before Halloween. They'll enjoy looking at their creations for a few days before they have to be thrown out.

Check your local grocery store or craft store for Halloween cookbooks full of tasty treats on a horror theme for both kids and adults.

Serve your kids a filling meal before trick-or-treating and they won't be tempted to eat any candy before they bring it home for you to check.

Halloween Safety Tips for Kids

Any time a child has an accident, it's tragic. The last thing that you want to happen is for your child to be hurt on a holiday. It would forever live in the minds of the child and the family.

There are many ways to keep your child safe at Halloween, when they are more prone to accidents and injuries. The excitement of children and adults at this time of year sometimes makes them forget to be careful.

Simple common sense can do a lot to stop any tragedies from happening.

•Help your child pick out or make a costume that will be safe. Make it fire proof. The eye holes should be large enough for good peripheral vision.

•If you set jack-o'-lanterns on your porch with candles in them, make sure that they are far enough out of the way so that kids' costumes won't accidentally be set on fire.

•Make sure that if your child is carrying a prop such as a scythe, butcher knife or pitchfork, that the tips are smooth and flexible enough to not cause injury if fallen on.

•Kids always want to help with the pumpkin carving. Small children shouldn't be allowed to use a sharp knife to cut the top or the face. There are many kits available that come with tiny saws that work better than knives and are safer, although they can cut you as well. It's best to let the kids clean out the pumpkin and draw a face on it, when you can carve for them.

•Treating your kids to a spooky Halloween dinner will make them less likely to eat the candy they collect before you have a chance to check it for them.

•Teaching your kids basic everyday safety such as not getting into cars or talking to strangers, watching both ways before crossing streets and crossing when the lights tell you to, will help make them safer when they are out trick-or-treating.

Make Halloween a fun, safe and happy time for your kids and they'll carry on the tradition that you taught them to their own families some day.

Switzerland County to offer Rural Heritage Tour

Enjoy the family life and culture of two French-Swiss families spanning over 50 years in early Switzerland County at the upcoming Rural Heritage Tour.

The Switzerland County Historical Society and Musee de Venoge will host their first collaborative event on Saturday, October 13th from 10 am to 5 pm and Sunday, October 14th from noon to 5 pm.

The tour will include Musee de Venoge (c. 1805-15) and the Thiebaud Farmstead (1817-1860). Come sample hearth and outdoor French style bake oven cooking, walk in a kitchen garden, talk with period reenactors and learn about their trades.

While the two sites were once considered 'eye-sores' they are both now listed on the National Register of Historic Sites and Places. Both were vacant properties that have been revitalized through historic preservation.

The process of restoration and the research into the history of the houses is remarkable and will be shared during the tour.

Visitors may start the tour at either site. The Thiebaud Farmstead is located at 5147 East State Road 56, three miles west of Vevay, along the Ohio River. Venoge is located at 111 State Road 129, approximately one mile north of State Route 56 just west of Vevay.

Admission is free, but donations are greatly appreciated.

The Rural Heritage Tour honors the rural heritage that founded Switzerland County and showcases two sites that show a high level of stewardship towards preserving rural architecture.

Venoge is a 30 acre tract of the Louis Gex-Oboussier farmstead, which formed a portion of the original 1802 French-Swiss Settlement. The Gex-Oboussier farmstead gives us a picture of early 19th century Switzerland County, Indiana, through an architecture that mirrors the lives of its inhabitants.

The unique French architecture at Venoge with its timber frame poteaux-sur-sol and the brick noggin illustrates features that serve as ethnic markers, revealing the identity of the people who built the structure and where they came from.

Venoge is named for the creek that bounds the property which in turn is named for a river in Switzerland.

The Thiebaud farmstead was settled in 1817 by Frederick and Harriet Thiebaud who emigrated from Switzerland with their eight children.

Their youngest son, Justi, and his wife Mary became the second generation to live on the 165 acre farmstead that was part of southeast Indiana's hay culture.

A restored hay-press barn will eventually be part of the site. The site's two-story frame vernacular Greek Revival house was built in the late 1850s over the stone cellar foundation of the original house.

The two sites had different goals with regard to restoration. Musee de Venoge does not have electricity, heat or water and uses heating and lighting sources common to 1815.

The Thiebaud house is intended to be used throughout the year for a variety of functions, so modern conveniences have been utilized but are unobtrusive.

Come see for yourself the many possibilities that preservation offers. The fall season is a perfect time to enjoy the natural beauty of the area and a leisurely weekend in Switzerland County.

For further information visit www.switzcomuseums.org and www.venoge.org, or call the Switzerland County Historical Society at 812-427-3560 or Venoge at 812-593-5726.

Watch out for deer on Kentucky highways

Attention motorists: watch out for deer while driving Kentucky highways this fall.

Deer movement peaks in late October through early December, during the rut, the whitetail's annual mating season.

Motorists should be on the lookout for deer crossing roads, especially at dusk and dawn, when deer are feeding and bucks are beginning to follow or chase does.

"Historically, November is the month with the highest number of deer-vehicle collisions in Kentucky," said Tina Brunjes, deer program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "Drivers should be alert, particularly in areas where brush or trees are close to roadways and when driving on stretches of interstate highways which have forested medians."

The presence of yellow deer crossing signs should also be a tipoff to motorists that they are traveling a stretch of road where deer may be encountered. "Our traffic engineers place the signs as they see a need, usually in areas with high rates of deer-vehicle crashes," said Chuck Wolfe, spokesman for the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet.

Over the past eight years, the Kentucky State Police (KSP) have documented an average of 2,985 deer/vehicle collisions annually. About 6 percent of these accidents resulted in human injuries. In 2011, there were three human fatalities in collisions between deer and vehicles, according to KSP statistics. On average about 400 deer/vehicle accidents occur in October, about 800 in November and about 300 in December.

Motorists who encounter deer should slow down until the deer moves. Never attempt to drive around a deer standing in the road. If the deer is facing away from the traffic flow, flash your head lights from low beam to high beam, and be prepared to stop. Deer usually travel in groups, so expect to see more than one deer crossing the road in single file.

Drive defensively when traveling at night through creek bottoms and other heavily-wooded areas. Watch for deer standing at the side of the road. Scan the roadway ahead carefully, and drive with your head lights on high beam when possible.

Top Ten Scariest Movies

1. Arachnophobia—Nearly all people are afraid of spiders. The fact that these spiders take over the town, kill within an instant, and have a football-sized queen sitting in the basement is an idea that terrifies.

2. Audition—No other sound/word has ever disturbed us more than "kiri kiri kiriiiiii." Bloodcurdling stuff, this one is. Be brave!

3. Stephen King's It—The scariest book or movie from King. Clowns have always scared us silly anyway. Add in the whole "living in the sewer" thing, and it's seriously frightening.

4. Jaws—May be the scariest movie of all time. In the ocean, a human is helpless against an angry clownfish, much less a great white shark. The isolation and the memorable music only add to the nightmares.

5. The Texas Chainsaw Massacre—So there's a serial killer who takes your face off and wears it as a mask. Very weird. Very disturbing.

6. 28 Days Later—There has never been a movie that conveyed such isolation, such desperation as this. Absolutely mesmerizing.

7. Alien—There's nothing more spine-chilling than to be helpless to something growing inside, eating a person from within. Please give us a quick death!

8. The Mist—The unknown, perhaps the most frightening thing in the world. Allowing your imagination to run wild and create the worst possible demise is heart-stopping.

9. Crowhaven Farm—It's a tale of witchcraft and covens with characters you trust suddenly turning bad. We had to sleep with light on after it was aired on TV in 1970.

10. The Thing — Suspense-filled paranoia, confusion abounds, unpleasant goriness and creepiness, this is the magnum opus of scary movies. Our heart skips a beat just thinking about this movie.

'Ghost Tours' will be held in Vevay, Ind.

"The Original" Vevay Ghost Tour and the Introduction to Ghost Hunting Overnight will take place this October in Vevay, Indiana. Enter a world of hidden pasts and dark secrets, stories that will send chills down your spine as you join us for a spirited journey in historic Vevay. Explore the eerie history, lore and some spine tingling stories as you walk around town and tour four different locations. The walking tours will take place on October 12, 13, 19, 20, and 26. Cost is $25.00/person and tours start at 7:00pm rain or shine. A portion of the ticket sales go to both the Historic Hoosier Theater and the Switzerland County Historical Society, which are also locations visited during the walking tour. Also visited is the Julia Knox Gift Shop and the Old Vevay Jail. All four locations are reputed to be haunted, and several locations will also offer tour participants the opportunity to meet and hear actual experiences from those who had them. Tour guides encourage those on the tour to bring their ghost hunting equipment along and take advantage of the opportunity to gain access to these places. A new offering this year is a very limited opportunity to take an Introduction to Ghost Hunting Class and Overnight at the Historic Hoosier Theater conducted by Southeastern Indiana Ghost Hunting Specialists (SIGHS). This class starts at 10:00pm at the theater and lasts until 7:00am. Students will get the opportunity to learn from professionals about equipment, proper technique, processing of data, observation, and interview. Also the opportunity to spend the night in a location with a reputation using hands-on learning with ghost hunting equipment and technology. The Introduction to Ghost Hunting Class and Overnight at the Historic Hoosier Theater with SIGHS is $89.00/person and includes the 7:00pm walking tour, and pizza delivered to the theater at 11:00pm. Tickets are available at the Julia Knox Gift Shop located at 206 East Main Street in Vevay or by phone 812-427-3338. Credit Cards are accepted. Tour sizes are limited and overnight is limited to 15 participants. Prior tours have sold out quickly.
